

ABSTRACT

An administrative method of user rights that can expand a volume license of a software program through a computer network and an 5 administrative system of user rights utilizing the same. A licensee of the software program can obtain additional user rights without undertaking ordinary procedures of the licensing agreement and quickly increase the number of end-users even in an 10 emergency such as a natural disaster.